Ltd. and Association of International Organizations and Universities (AIOU)

CONFERENCE OVERVIEW

Management of Transformation is emerging as a challenge in the present globalized era in various sectors like manufacturing, agriculture, and services. The rapidity of change taking place in the economic, social and political environment is creating a marked impact on business organizations. It is now imperative for business organizations to change and adapt to changing conditions to stay, survive, thrive, and remain competitive in the market. The whole economic, social and political structure is passing through a process of transformation. The complex nature of change and transformation process have led to the evolution, over the years, multiple models and diverse perspectives. A change process initially starts with developmental change, which focuses on better performance. The second category of change is transitional change, which involves evolution and gradual introduction of some new ways to replace the existing ones. The third category of change is transformational change, which involves complete major part of organization transformed in terms of its vision, mission, culture, leadership and the like. This also involves revised mission and core values, restructuring of organizations and inducting dynamic new faces at different levels in the organization.

The Conference shall focus on various aspects of management of transformation at the individual level, at the group/community level as well as at the level of organization(s) including management of turn-around not only at the level of the organization, but also at the level of nations and the globe as one world.

The Art of Living is one such organization, which is dedicated towards transformation at the level of self to start with and takes it further to the concept of one world, one family under the esteemed leadership of His Holiness Shri Shri Ravishankar Ji. Land Mark Education is another movement, which is devoted to transforming human lives. Master Del Pe is also dedicated for transforming Human Life at the global level.

The main objective of this Conference is to provide a platform to academicians, researchers, spiritual masters, practicing managers and policy makers to share their ideas, views, experiences, and research findings in order to evolve an appropriate mechanism and strategy to manage transformation.
